Some need intensive rehabilitation following an accident; those with Alzheimer’s disease or other related dementia may need the worry-free, 24-hour care our secure environment provides. We offer recuperative care following a hospital stay or long term convalescence for those who can no longer handle the activities of daily life on their own. We even provide hospice care for the terminally ill or respite care for those who need a short reprieve from care giving responsibilities.

Regardless of whether a resident is in need of short term or long term care, complex medical care, or day-to-day help with simple activities, our team of professionals is keenly aware of one thing: Each person is unique and deserves an individualized plan of care—one that takes into account their physical, mental, social and spiritual well-being. Our interdisciplinary approach melds the specialties of physicians and nursing staff, with rehabilitation therapists, activity personnel, dietitians and social workers to develop a care plan that encompasses all facets of each individual’s needs. Our residents are assured that activity, nutrition and administrative personnel will strive to accommodate their individual preferences.
